Health Support for Pregnant Mothers and Newborns

GENERAL POLICY/APPROACH:

Pregnant Mothers:

Early Head Start works closely with pregnant mothers to secure comprehensive prenatal and postpartum care. With each expectant mother enrolled in EHS, a plan is developed collaboratively to ensure completion of appropriate risk assessments (nutritional screening, Edinburgh mental health screening, etc.), prenatal medical and dental examinations, and interventions as needed or required in anticipation of the child’s birth (as well as subsequent to childbirth). Specialists work with expectant mothers to develop a labor and delivery plan in anticipation of childbirth. In cases in which substance abuse or severe medical needs are present, home-based teachers supply referrals and assistance in identifying a potentially successful source of treatment.

Specialists also provide educational resources to expectant mothers on a series of topics, which they then use to plan, including:

- Fetal development (including the risks of smoking and alcohol)
- Labor and delivery
- Postpartum recovery (and the potential for postpartum depression)
- Breastfeeding
- Community resources relevant to pregnant mothers

Newborn:

When a pregnant woman enrolled in the program gives birth, the newborn is automatically enrolled in EHS. Within two weeks of the infant’s birth, a Newborn Health Home Visit is completed to ensure the well-being of both the mother and the child.
